ROCKLAND HAS A LAUNCHING

Big Crowd Turns Out To See Islesboro Ferryboat Go Overboard

Time turned backward in its flight, or seemed to, Tuesday forenoon, when Snow's shipyard was again the scene of holiday festivities which always attend the launching of a new craft.

The center of attraction was the new ferryboat Gov. Brann built for the town of Islesboro and to be operated between that island town and Lincolnville Beach on the mainland. The craft was proudly decked with signal flags, and from the center of the deck waved "Old Glory."

Under the stern, or the bow, whichever it is on a ferryboat, was a small launching platform decked in the national colors, and standing there—awaiting the word—were the following persons: Miss Evelyn Randlett to whom the important christening ceremony had been assigned; Rev. W. C. Osgood, speaker of the occasion; Horace Sprague, Joseph Pendleton and Malcolm McLeod, members of the ferry committee; the three men who will constitute the Gov. Brann's crew—Capt. Eben Babbidge, Engineer Robin Quimby and Purser Stapwood Hinkley; the old firm of I. L. Snow & Co., being represented by Capt. R. K. Snow and Capt. John I. Snow. Standing modestly in the background was Fred C. Gatoomb, superintendent of yard, who has had personal oversight of every phase of the construction.

The launching preparations were in the hands of Albert Condon, superintendent of the plant. Interested observers, whose presence smacked of the old seafaring days were Arthur P. Wardwell, John J. Wardwell, Henry Keating, and Capt. David Haskell of Rockland, R. E. Dunn, Charles Morse, Capt. I. E. Archibald and John Baker of Thomaston. Bath also sent a delegation.

Anxiously these men scanned the rising tide, and when it had apparently reached its peak the signal was given to knock away the blocks. There was no immediate reaction to this treatment, and improvised battering rams were used with the desired effect.

As the ferryboat started to slide down the ways Miss Randlett said "I christen thee Gov. Brann" and smash went the bottle against the rudder guard.

While the auspicious moment was being awaited Rev. Mr. Osgood delivered, in excellent voice, a most appropriate address.

Tributes of appreciation were expressed to the City of Rockland for hospitality; His Excellency, Gov. Brann for the appropriation; Commissioner Carlton of the Highway Commission for the project; Leslie Smith for the vision and spirit of the undertaking. The patience and system of the ferry committee were productive of gratifying results as was the co-operation of the selectmen, while the confidence of the citizens and good will of summer guests were also important factors.

"Gratitude was tendered the young christener of the craft and to the builders, I. L. Snow Corp. for fine work and all favors conferred. Quoting from Longfellow, 'And like the lover of the sea, that in his long lifetime he grew to be, his words come now to help me.'"

"Build me straight, O worthy Master! Staunch and strong, a worthy vessel! That shall laugh at all disaster And with wave and whirlwind wrestle!"

Proceeding through the medium of verse, the speaker said:

"Choose the timbers with the greatest care,
Of all that is unsound beware;
For only what is sound and strong
To the ferry boat shall belong.
Cedars of Maine and Georgia pine
Here together shall combine
A goodly frame and a goodly fame
And the Governor Brann shall be her name."

Miss Randlett, who is valedictorian of her class in Islesboro High School, wore a corsage bouquet of American Beauty roses, presented by the builders; and after the launching also presented her with a silver compact.

The Gov. Brann is 65 feet long, measures 27 feet on the beam and draws 5 feet 8 inches of water. The gross tonnage is 91 and the net tonnage 74.

The frame is constructed of white oak and the deck and planking are of yellow pine. Galvanized iron has been used in the fastenings.

A main cabin 52x4 1/2 feet is located

ANOTHER POPPY DAY

This Will Be For Veterans Of Foreign Wars One Week From Saturday

Huntley-Hill Post Veterans of Foreign Wars poppy day will be Saturday May 23. Commander Oliver R. Hamlin urges a generous contribution in exchange for the flowers that grow on the battle fields of France, the land where the poppy grew in such profusion "among the crosses row on row." It was but natural that the poppy should exert its appeal upon the heart and mind of the Overseas veteran. Beneath these white crosses sleep more than 30,000 comrades left behind to keep eternal watch across the fields whence came the messengers who called them to their rendezvous with death.

Through 18 years with unswerving loyalty, the membership of the V.F.W. has thus sought to honor the dead by helping the living. The V.F.W. annual Buddy Poppy distribution is a labor of love, an effort in which each and every member may take just pride and in which all should seek to participate.

As all V.F.W. members and units know, the annual Buddy Poppy sale is the source from which is derived by far the greater portion of the funds available to the Post, the Departments, and the national organization for the aid, benefit, and relief of disabled and needy comrades and their dependents, for rehabilitation and veterans Administration liaison work for expenses incidental to hospitalization of non-compensated veterans for immediate relief of destitution in great calamities or disasters, and for the maintenance and expansion of the V.F.W. National Home where children of our deceased comrades are growing up with the benefit of privileges which would have been denied them had our organization failed to provide for their care. The Buddy Poppy money provides for all these things, but is especially essential to the maintenance of the home. It constitutes one of the greatest sources of revenue for this "Child village" which shelters the sons and daughters of our former comrades in arms. The V.F.W. Buddy Poppies will be distributed by Commander James Monahan, chairman of Huntley-Hill Post, and members of the Auxiliary, and they will give their services without compensation of any kind, using their time and efforts gladly to honor the dead by helping the living.

It is the hope of Chairman James Monahan, and the members of Huntley-Hill post that every patriotic citizen and every World War veteran will respond to the spirit of these poppies when they are offered on the streets Saturday.

The house on the opposite side has divided cabins for men and women with toilet facilities. An arcula system furnishes heat for the small cabins and pilot house, and an auxiliary Fairbanks-Morse plant furnishes electric light.

Motive power is furnished by a 160 h.p. Fairbanks-Morse engine, and a double-ended drive is used. Ice guards protect the rudders in the winter season. The hull is painted white.

The cost of the craft, which is about $30,000, is defrayed by an Islesboro bond issue.

Plane Crash In Rockland Harbor

Results In Death Of William Montgomery— Splendid Work By Coast Guard and Elmer Witham Saves the Other Six Occupants— Plane Had Been Inspected Previous Day— Stanley Boynton Discusses Disaster and Plans

An airplane crash which resulted in the death of one passenger and severe injuries to the pilot and five other passengers occurred off Rockland Breakwater shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday forenoon, the disaster being witnessed by scores of persons along the waterfront.

The Dead

William Montgomery of Ingraham Hill

The Survivors

Percy Loftus, 34, of 23 Prospect street, Waterville.

Albert G. Graham, 40, (the pilot) New York City and Rockland.

Charles A. Sutton, 54, of 34 Bridge street, Augusta.

Stafford Congdon, 26, of Talbot avenue, Rockland.

Francis R. Neville, 34, of North Smithfield, R. I.

J. G. Baum of 56 Pacific street, Rockland.

All of the survivors except Mr. Baum were taken to Knox Hospital where their condition at noontime was rated as excellent, with nobody's name on the danger list.

Mr. Baum's injuries while severe were said to be serious. The attending physicians at the hospital were Drs. C. D. North and F. F. Brown, their work being ably supplemented by the efforts of the superintendent, Miss Ellen Daly, and other members of the staff.

The plane, a Fairchild 71 monoplane, equipped with pontoons, was owned by the Stanley C. Boynton Co., which had only fire insurance.

Mr. Boynton told The Courier Gazette that the craft was valued at $5000. In view of the crushing disaster which he counted not so much as the death of William Montgomery, Mr. Boynton was unable to make any statement as to the future of the Penobscot Bay air service, except to say that it probably meant its discontinuance as far as he is concerned.

"The plane was in excellent condition as passed Tuesday by a licensed mechanic," said Mr. Boynton, "and had its full equipment, with life preservers and anchor."

In reply to the published statement that the plane was not licensed, Mr. Boynton said:

"It carried a government license, good until June 1st of the present year and was to have been relicensed on the first inspector's call May 27. It was given a complete 100-hour check Tuesday by A. Poulin, a government approved repair station employee. It is true that the State license had expired, but I supposed it ran out coincidentally with the government license. I made out the application for a State license Tuesday."

The plane left its berth near Tilson wharf on schedule time yesterday morning and taxied about half a mile into the harbor before coming into the wind.

Pilot Graham's story is to the effect that after making an elevation of about 75 feet he tried to make a right turn, but that the machine continued to head toward the left, the rudder failing to respond.

"I saw that something was wrong," said Graham, "and tried to make a landing. The plane slipped and one of the pontoons struck first causing the plane to topple over. This left all of us struggling under water and we had to smash our way out. One pontoon split lengthwise and the nose of the other broke open. This left only part of one pontoon to keep the ship afloat."

Elmer Witham was in the office of Rackliff & Witham when the crash occurred, and to him it appeared as if one of the wings had crumpled. He immediately got into his power boat, accompanied by Edwin Witham and Joseph Billings, and put out to the partially submerged plane.

He saw that the cable boat was approaching on the lee side, so he shot on the windward side and saw Sutton clinging to the wreckage. When the occupants of the power boat pulled Sutton into their craft he had a bad cut on one side of his head, and it was thought that both legs were broken. The rescue was a most timely one, as the man could not have hung on much longer. Sutton was transferred to the boat from the cable ship.

At about the same time the Coast Guard cable ship A-B 9 made its appearance on the scene, lowered a boat, and five more of the plane's occupants were taken off.

In connection with the cable ship's timely arrival it is interesting to note that it had been the daily custom of the Kippapoo's men to watch the plane out of sight. They were consequently witnesses of the disaster and J. Arthur Holt, chief yeoman ran across to the other side of Tilson's wharf to where the cable ship was just berthing and despatched it to the rescue. It is said that only three minutes elapsed from the time the craft had left the dock until it was engaged in the actual rescue work.

The cable boat, commanded by Chief Boatswain's Mate Frank Lenahan, brought the survivors to the Vinalhaven & Rockland Steamboat Co.'s slip, where ambulances were in readiness to convey the victims to the hospital.

J. Arthur Holt, chief yeoman of the Kippapoo, who was on the rescue ship, provided the press with the first list of the passengers, and also brought ashore photographs of the wreck which were taken to Boston by airplane for publication in the Boston newspapers.

The A. B. 9 returned immediately to the wreck in the vain hope of finding William Montgomery still alive, but no trace of the passenger could be found.

The airplane wreckage was towed to the Public Landing where its arrival shortly before noon was witnessed by a large number of spectators. The body of Mr. Montgomery was found in the rear seat of the plane, both hands fastened to the seat in a death grip. The body was viewed by Medical Examiner H. J. Weisman and then removed to the Burpee undertaking rooms. Dr. Weisman reported that Montgomery's neck was broken in the fall.

Mr. Montgomery was on his way to Vinalhaven to do some work for the Fuller Cobb Co. by whom he was employed. It was told yesterday that he had never previously traveled by airplane and that he had always exhibited a dread of it.

He made his home at Ingraham Hill and was 54 years of age. He entered the employ of Fuller-Cobb-Davis 40 years ago and was retained by the successor of that firm, being employed in the carpet department. He was an expert workman and his wide acquaintance brought him many friends. He is survived by a brother, Charles Montgomery and four nephews.

The wrecked plane was hoisted onto one of the docks at the Public Landing early yesterday afternoon and an hour's investigation conducted by Capt. Burtis F. Fowler, chief inspector for the State of Maine on aviation; and Inspector Levi Flint of Rockland revealed the cause of the disaster.

Among the wreckage were found sections of the left flapper control and the main tail post both worn so thin from corrosion that they had apparently snapped like pipe stems when Pilot Graham sought to control the ship during the morning gale! The defective parts and a section of the crumpled wing were taken away by Capt. Fowler when he left for Augusta tonight.

"We have learned enough about the disaster to know that Pilot Graham was a real hero," Capt. Fowler told The Courier-Gazette. He was the first to clamber out of the wreckage through the front door, and as he did so he found that the left wing had crumpled against the rear door in such manner as to prevent the exit of the other passengers. He managed to pull the wing away, and released three passengers, two of whom, Sutton and Neville, were so greatly exhausted that they would have soon perished.

Amazed and incensed over the wild rumors which were in circulation after the crash Stanley C.

Boynton, head of the Penobscot Bay air service last night elaborated for The Courier-Gazette his statement given in the foregoing article, producing as he did so the company's log containing A. Poulin's report, made on the previous day, that the ship was o. k. throughout, and that the pontoons were in similar condition. Mr. Poulin is chief mechanic of the Waterville Airways, Inc., an approved inspection and repair station, recorded by the Department of Commerce.

Pilot Graham, according to Boynton, is one of the ablest seaplane pilots on the coast, with more than 3000 flying hours to his credit. He has a three-star rating.

"The wings did not fall off in the air," asserted Boynton, and as far as we can tell were intact when the plane struck the water. A new engine was installed less than 20 flying hours ago, and had been given its 20-hour check by Poulin. The motor did not fail, and was shut down by Graham when he saw that the plane was going to strike the water.

"With regard to the story that I am not flying this season on account of ill health, I want to say that my real reason for having another pilot is that I am devoting my entire time to forming a new corporation, and when the accident occurred I was on the point of leaving Rockland on a business trip to arrange for a second plane. I shall continue my efforts to start this new corporation, and if we have two planes I shall fly one and Graham the other.

"From the plane which was wrecked yesterday we expect to be able to salvage the engine, propeller and instruments.

"The pilot, mechanic and officials feel that there was no negligence contributing to the accident. Either that the force of the gale, coming off the mountain caused the plane to make a flat turn or that there was some unforeseen breakdown in the rudder. It was seen where the rudder had been torn loose from the impact when the machine struck the water, but the controls on the rudder were still intact and the cables were hooked up."

Stanley C. Boynton came first into aviation's spotlight when he broke the transcontinental speed record in his race across the continent from Rockland to Los Angeles. He has been one of the most successful pilots in the business, and carries a transport license from the Department of Commerce for medium weight seaplanes.

His gratitude for the speedy and efficient service of the Coast Guard after yesterday's disaster knows no bounds and his sympathy for Mr. Montgomery was expressed with much feeling.

Misfortunes never come singly, for in addition to losing his plane yesterday, all of the funds belonging to the company were contained in a wallet lost from Pilot Graham's person.

The county commissioners were in session at the South Warren bridge Monday debating the merits of that interesting question—to close or not to close. Many residents of Thomaston and Warren looked on, and an informal vote taken among them showed 24 in favor of closing and eight opposed. Thomaston town meeting voted in favor of closing and Warren town meeting informally recommended it. A cursory investigation convinced the commissioners that much repairing would be necessary if the bridge were to be kept in operation, but the matter will be taken under consideration.

THE OLD LAUNCHING DAYS

The launching into our own Rockland waters of a vessel built on Rockland shores by our home workmen skilled in the craft could never fail to move the hearts of citizens gathered to witness the age-old ceremony. There would be some of these onlookers whose memories stirred with the recollection of named craft of various designs, launched from these shores at the north and south ends of the city, that adventured into the far ports of the world and won distinction for the officers, who sailed them, the men and boys who in various capacities served at rope and wheel, and no less the men skilled in the building art, who out of the felled tree fashioned a craft of marvelous possibilities, the stories of which illuminate the tales of daring and romance and guide the poet's imagination. That our people in the present week should have experienced this thrill of a launching ceremony is a thing of no small moment, the story of which on another page is told in detail, not omitting the high note of the bottle whose violent smashing always signals the launch. Some of us yet live to recall a memorable ceremony when the artist, whirling the bottle in air, cried out with a booming voice:

Break the Bottle!
Spill the Growl!
For the good old ship
Jennie Beals!

It was real champagne in the bottle of those times. Whence the term "growl"? Can some old sailor within reach of our pen tell us? And the "Jennie Beals." She was one of the foremost craft of her day, whose name was oftener on the lip equally of the landsman and men of the sea.

THE AIRPLANE WRECKS

One looks into the morning paper and finds oneself but slightly moved by the daily story of the airplane wreck. So accustomed do we get to the note of tragedy that sounds in the ear out of every corner of the world. It is when one's own neighborhood becomes the scene of the wreck, with its accompaniment of death and suffering, that the tragedy of the flown plane presents its real proportions; then the whole community joins in expressions of sympathy for those among the hurt, and for the homes that are touched by the tragedy.

WINDS OF SPRING

It was our much bewhiskered Bryant, was it not, who registered the declaration that the melancholy days had come, the saddest of the year. It is well-known that the poet had in mind the autumn months. We wish it were not too late to sound his opinions, whatever they might be, of the present demonstration of weather in this hitherto poetically listed month of May. It seems to us that the winds which had been steadily addressing themselves to the homes of Knox County, and are still at it, quite leave in the rear those times which our good gray poet enfolded in his oft quoted lines.

LITTLE LORD FAUNTILER

While we confess to an interest in the moving picture, there lies in the connection a mental reservation that withholds approval from much of what the public has to encounter upon the screen. But here comes "Little Lord Fauntleroy," touching so handsomely the highest point the art has yet achieved, that even the most skeptical will discover in it the finer elements of enjoyment. Who of us will not recall the love that the hero of the story occasioned when it was read and re-read in every family? What the book then gave to us appears anew in the picture, a tale so beautifully told as to leave with its onlooker the most pleasing memories. This is not the advertisement of the publicity department, but the considered opinion of one who, as with a re-read book, has three times sat through this striking story of the screen, and hopes to enjoy it again.

KNOX-LINCOLN LEAGUE

Coming Games

Saturday—Rockland at Newcastle; St. George at Camden; Vinalhaven at Thomaston.

St. George defeated Lincoln Academy 9 to 1 Tuesday.

Weather conditions did not permit the return of the Rockland High School team from Vinalhaven Tuesday night, but the boys enjoyed their stay on the island and learned how well justified is the praise for Vinalhaven hospitality. Homes were opened for the 27 visitors, and every thing possible was done to make them comfortable. Coach Sezak wants everybody to know how much it was appreciated.

St. George 11, Thomaston 10. In a weird and erratic game St. George defeated Thomaston 11 to 10 at St. George Saturday.

The wind was blowing very hard and the fielders misjudged nearly every ball that was hit into the air. Both pitchers were hit hard and the teams made six errors each. There was heavy hitting and plenty of it. Libby of Thomaston had four hits out of five times at bat. Smalley of St. George had four hits out of six times at bat. Simpson the little second baseman replaced Stone in the fourth and made two beautiful plays. Smalley of St. George made a pretty one-handed catch of a ball the wind was taking toward the outfield.

Camden 13, Thomaston 2

Thomaston High had a solitary batting spree at the expense of pitcher Dunbar at Thomaston Tuesday, and after that was able to make only three scattered hits, scoring never again after the second inning. Woodcock was effective in all but the second and third innings, and it was the latter which gave undisputed possession of the game.

Coach Richards' Camden boys are showing marked improvement as the season progresses and he is to be credited with doing a very efficient job with green material to work upon. Thomaston's principal failing in this particular contest was the lack of caution shown by the base-runners. Five were nabbed at first base, and while this does not serve as the sole reason for defeat it was certainly contributory in a large measure.

Singles by G. Delano and Anderson, and a double by Day gave the home team its only runs, and thereafter Thomaston never had but one man on the base paths.

A single by Fairbrother, a base on balls, a balk, and Belyea's double gave Camden two scores in the second inning, and an infield error and singles by Beveridge, Bartlett, Marriner and Fairbrother yielded four more in the third.

Style Field was a shivery place for the spectators several of whom are very grateful to Carl Chaples for making such a substantial wind-shield.

OWNERS REPORT

Saving up to 6 Barrels of Gas in a Year with DODGE

AMAZED BY SENSATIONAL GAS ECONOMY OF AMERICA'S BIG, MONEY-MAKING CAR

THINK of it! Owners say that the way Dodge economizes on gasoline, it is saving them up to six barrels of gasoline a year! Twenty miles... 21 miles... 22... 23... and even more miles to the gallon! That's what Dodge owners from coast to coast report they are getting right out on the highways—right in city traffic—in the city! Here's a typical example—a letter from Mr. Brady, Valley Stream, L. I., New York. Read how Mr. Brady averages, every day, 21 miles to the gallon on the average of 15,000 miles a year. It is giving me 21 miles to the gallon. On this basis I'll use only about 714 gallons of gas this year. In my old car I used about 1,070 gallons. In other words I'll save about 356 gallons—or more than six large-size barrels of gas—a year!

No wonder owners report that the big, new Dodge is actually costing them less to own and operate than any car, big or small, they ever owned before! No wonder more people buy Dodge cars than any other make, with the exception of the three lowest-priced cars!

DODGE
Division of Chrysler Corporation

"This invention showed me how I can save up to $50 in gas expense this year," says F. L. Petersen, Washington, D. C. "It's the gasometer, and it registers the miles per gallon a car will go. My old car was giving me about 12 or 13 miles per gallon. A friend told me about the Dodge gasometer test. I took this test and saw a Dodge go 21 1/2 miles per gallon. That's why I bought a Dodge."

Farmers File Work Sheets

Three hundred farmers in Knox-Lincoln county have filled out work sheets under the terms of the agricultural conservation program, Harold Allen, Hope, chairman of the Knox-Lincoln county agricultural conservation committee, has announced.

Filling out a work sheet and filing it with the county committee is the first step taken by farmers who plan to participate in the program this year and become eligible for payments. Applications for payment will be filled later, after farmers have measured up to the standards of the program. Farmers who have not turned in work sheets will not be eligible to file applications.

Each work sheet locates and describes the farm, and gives a record of how acreage was used in 1935. The information is used by the county committee in establishing each applicant's base acreage of soil-depleting crops. The work sheet also is a guide to the farmer in planning his 1936 operations so that he will be eligible for payments.

Class I, or soil-conserving, payments will be made for planting soil-conserving crops on acreage formerly in soil-depleting crops. Class II, or soil-building, payments will be made for using approved soil-building practices on cropland or pasture.

Committeemen and the county agent's office have supplies of work sheets, and are helping farmers fill them out.

Agriculture

More tattooing outfits are being bought in the county by poultrymen in order to protect their birds from being stolen. Arthur Paquet has an outfit with No. A129. He has 1,000 pullets on range and is planning to tattoo them soon. The birds were brooded in his mammoth brooder house.

Round Top Farms have as herd bull a full brother to the cow which recently made a world's record. E. B. Denny, manager, feels that this bull should give fine helpers with good production. Their herd is now on official test and the cows are doing very well.

Wallace Spear, North Nobleboro, has used several tons of lime on his land this year. He has found that on a sweet soil there are not as many weeds, especially Queen Ann's Lace.

Herbert Spear has 1,000 cross-bred chicks which he will put on range soon. He is planning to get a tattooing outfit in order to protect his birds from thieves.

Marshal Moody, Bunker Hill, is looking for a good crop of apples on his young McIntosh trees. Although these trees were hurt by winter injury two years ago they are beginning to show good growth and the injured spots have started to heal. The new type of pruning was demonstrated on his orchard.

Philip Seekins, Thomaston, has a fine clover pasture as result of top-dressing last year with manure and superphosphate.

With The Homes

"Restful Bedrooms" is the subject of meetings scheduled for Miss Lawrence, home demonstration agent for next week:—

Tuesday—Union at Mrs. Belle Kenniston's home.

Wednesday—East Union at Mrs. Jennie Payson's home. Mrs. Ora Merrifield and Mrs. Olive Grassow are on the dinner committee.

Thursday—South Thomaston at the Grange hall in the morning and for dinner. Mrs. Victoria Clements has invited the Farm Bureau to meet with her in the afternoon. Mrs. Annie Dennison and Mrs. Madelyn Maloney are on the dinner committee.

Friday — Burkettsville at Mrs. Gladys Culligan's home. Mrs. Ruby Hannon and Mrs. Cora Maddocks are on the dinner committee.

Home Craft and Hobby Show, June 9

A Home Craft and Hobby Show is to be held June 9 at the American Legion hall, Damariscotta, 1 to 4:30 daylight time.

Home-made projects for selling purposes are especially desired for exhibits. If you have a hobby take in some of your work. If you have antique rugs or needle work, take them for the antique section. To fill "grandmother's pantry shelf" take tempting jellies, marmalades, home-cooked food, home-canned pickles, fruits and vegetables.

The Legion Hall will be open to receive exhibits from 9 to 11 daylight time. To send exhibits, mail them to Mrs. Julia Mountfort, chairman of the Home Craft and Hobby Show, Damariscotta.

Mrs. Rena C. Bowles, home industries specialist for the Extension Service, will exhibit products which have been made in the State.

Miss Doris Urquhart, home demonstration agent for Somerset County, gives a radio talk May 28 over WLBZ at 11:45 a. m., on "Garden Requirements." Following Miss Urquhart, a homemaker from Somerset County will give a talk on "Vacationing in Maine."
